LO! where the rosy-bosom'd Hours,
Fair VENUS' train appear,

Disclose the long-expecting flowers,

And wake the purple year!

The Attic warbler pours her throat,

Responsive to the cuckow's note,

The untaught harmony of spring :

While whisp'ring pleasure as they fly,

Cool Zephyrs thro' the clear blue sky

Their gather'd fragrance fling.

Where'er the oak's thick branches stretch

A broader browner shade ;

Where'er the rude and moss-grown beech

O'er-canopies the glade *,

* ————— a bank.

O'er-canopied with luscious woodbine.

Shakefp. Midf. Night's Dream.

Befide some water's rushy brink

With me the Muse shall sit, and think

(At ease reclin'd in rustic state)

How vain the ardour of the Crowd,

How low, how little are the Proud,

How indigent the Great !

Still is the toiling hand of Care :

The panting herds repose :

Yet hark, how thro' the peopled air

The busy murmur glows !

The insect youth are on the wing,

Eager to taste the honied spring,

And float amid the liquid noon ^b:

Some lightly o'er the current skim,

Some shew their gayly-gilded trim

Quick-glancing to the sun ^c.

To Contemplation's sober eye ^d

Such is the race of Man:

And they that creep, and they that fly,

Shall end where they began.

^b "Nare per æstatem liquidam——"

Alike the Busy and the Gay

But flutter thro' life's little day,

In fortune's varying colours drest :

Brush'd by the hand of rough Mischance,

Or chill'd by age, their airy dance

They leave, in dust to rest.

Methinks I hear in accents low

The sportive kind reply :

Poor moralist ! and what art thou ?

A solitary fly !

Thy Joys no glittering female meets,

No hive hast thou of hoarded sweets,

No painted plumage to display :

On hasty wings thy youth is flown ;

Thy sun is set, thy spring is gone——

We frolick, while 'tis May.

FAVOURITE CAT,

Drowned in a Tub of Gold Fishes.

TWAS on a lofty vase's side,
Where China's gayest art had dy'd

The azure flowers, that blow ;

Demurest of the tabby kind,

The pensive Selima reclin'd,

Gazed on the lake below.

Her

Her conscious tail her joy declar'd ;

The fair round face, the snowy beard,

The velvet of her paws,

Her coat, that with the tortoise vies,

Her ears of jet, and emerald eyes,

She saw ; and purr'd applause,

Still had she gaz'd ; but 'midst the tide

Two angel forms were seen to glide,

The Genii of the stream :

Their scaly armour's Tyrian hue

Thro' richest purple to the view

Betray'd a golden gleam,

The

OF A FAVOURITE CAT. 13

The hapless Nymph with wonder saw :

A whisker first and then a claw,

With many an ardent wish,

She stretch'd in vain to reach the prize.

What female heart can gold despise ?

What Cat's averse to fish ?

Presumptuous Maid ! with looks intent

Again she stretch'd, again she bent,

Nor knew the gulf between.

(Malignant Fate sat by, and smil'd)

The slipp'ry verge her feet beguil'd,

She tumbled headlong in.

Eight times emerging from the flood

She mew'd to ev'ry wat'ry God,

Some speedy aid to send.

No Dolphin came, no Nereid stirr'd :

Nor cruel Tom, nor Susan heard.

A Fav'rite has no friend !

From hence, ye Beauties, undeceiv'd,

Know, one false step is ne'er retriev'd,

And be with caution bold.

Not all that tempts your wand'ring eyes

And heedless hearts, is lawful prize ;

Nor all, that glisters, gold.

And ye, that from the stately brow
Of WINDSOR's heights th' expanse below
Of grove, of lawn, of mead survey,
Whose turf, whose shade, whose flowers among
Wanders the hoary Thames along
His silver-winding way.

Ah happy hills, ah pleasing shade,
Ah fields belov'd in vain,
Where once my careless childhood stray'd,
A stranger yet to pain !
I feel the gales, that from ye blow,
A momentary bliss-bestow,

PROSPECT OF ETON COLLEGE. 19

As waving fresh their gladfoms wing,

My weary soul they seem to sooth,

And, ^f redolent of joy and youth,

To breathe a second spring.

Say, Father THAMES, for thou hast seen

Full many a sprightly race

Disporting on thy margent green

The paths of pleasure trace,

To sweeten liberty :

Some bold adventurers disdain

The limits of their little reign,

And unknown regions dare descry :

Still as they run they look behind,

They hear a voice in every wind,

And snatch a fearful joy.

PROSPECT OF ETON COLLEGE. 21

Gay hope is theirs by fancy fed,
Less pleasing when possess'd ;
The tear forgot as soon as shed,
The sunshine of the breast :
Theirs buxom health of rosy hue,
Wild wit, invention ever-new,
And lively cheer of vigour born ;
The thoughtless day, the easy night,
The spirits pure, the slumbers light,
That fly th' approach of morn.

Alas, regardless of their doom,
The little victims play !
No sense have they of ills to come,
Nor care beyond to-day :

Yet see how all around 'em wait

The Ministers of human fate,

And black Misfortune's baleful train!

Ah, shew them where in ambush stand

To seize their prey the murth'rous band!

Ah, tell them, they are men!

These shall the fury Passions tear,

The vulturs of the mind,

Disdainful Anger, pallid Fear,

And Shame that sculks behind;

Or

Or Jealousy with rankling tooth,
That inly gnaws the secret heart,
And Envy wan, and faded Care,
Grim-visag'd comfortless Despair,
And Sorrow's piercing dart.

Ambition this shall tempt to rise,
Then whirl the wretch from high,
To bitter Scorn a sacrifice,
And grinning Infamy,
The stings of Falshood those shall try,
And hard Unkindness' alter'd eye,

And keen Remorse with blood defil'd,

And moody Madness * laughing wild

Amid severest woe.

That every labouring sinew strains,

Those in the deeper vitals rage :

Lo, Poverty, to fill the band,

That numbs the soul with icy hand,

And slow-consuming Age,

To each his suff'rings : all are men,

Condemn'd alike to groan ;

The tender for another's pain,

Th' unfeeling for his own.

Yet ah ! why should they know their fate ?

Since sorrow never comes too late,

And happiness too swiftly flies.

Thought would destroy their paradise.

DAUGHTER of Jove, relentless Power,
Thou Tamer of the human breast,

Whose iron scourge and tort'ring hour,

The Bad affright, afflict the Best!

Bound

30 HYMN TO ADVERSITY.

Bound in thy adamantine chain

The Proud are taught to taste of pain,

And purple Tyrants vainly groan

With pangs unfelt before, unpitied and alone.

When first thy Sire to send on earth

Virtue, his darling Child, design'd,

To thee he gave the heav'nly Birth,

And bad to form her infant mind.

Stern rugged Nurse ! thy rigid lore

With patience many a year she bore :

What sorrow was, thou bad'st her know,

And from her own she learn'd to melt at others' woe.

Scared

HYMN TO ADVERSITY. 31

Scared at thy frown terrific, fly

Self-pleasing Folly's idle brood,

Wild Laughter, Noise, and thoughtless Joy,

And leave us leisure to be good.

Light they disperse, and with them go

The summer Friend, the flatt'ring Foe ;

By vain Prosperity received,

To her they vow their truth, and are again believed.

Wisdom in fable garb array'd

Immers'd in rapt'rous thought profound,

And Melancholy, silent maid

With leaden eye, that loves the ground,

Still

Still on thy solemn steps attend :

Warm Charity, the gen'ral Friend,

With Justice to herself severe,

And Pity, dropping soft the sadly-pleasing tear.

Oh, gently on thy Suppliant's head,

Dread Goddess, lay thy chast'ning hand !

Not in thy Gorgon terrors clad,

Nor circled with the vengeful Band

(As by the Impious thou art seen)

With thund'ring voice, and threat'ning mien,

With screaming Horror's funeral cry,

Despair, and fell Disease, and ghastly Poverty.

Thy

HYMN TO ADVERSITY. 33

Thy form benign, oh Goddess, wear,
Thy milder influence impart,
Thy philosophic Train be there
To soften, not to wound my heart,
The gen'rous spark extinct revive,
Teach me to love and to forgive,
Exact my own defects to scan,
What others are, to feel, and know myself a Man.

THE
PROGRESS of POESY.

A PINDARIC ODE.

Φωνᾶντα συνέτοισιν' ἐς
Δὲ τὸ πᾶν ἐρμηνέων χατίζει.

PINDAR, Olymp. II.

ADVERTISEMENT.

When the Author first published this and the following Ode, he was advised, even by his Friends, to subjoin some few explanatory Notes ; but had too much respect for the understanding of his Readers to take that liberty.

^h A WAKE, Æolian lyre, awake,
And give to rapture all thy trembling strings.

From Helicon's harmonious springs

A thousand rills their mazy progress take :

The

^h Awake, my glory : awake, lute and harp.

David's Psalms.

Pindar styles his own poetry with its musical accompaniments,
Αἰολιῆς μολπῆς, Ἀἰολίδες χορδαί, Αἰολίδων πνοαὶ αὐλῶν, Æolian song,
Æolian strings, the breath of the Æolian flute.

38 THE PROGRESS OF POESY.

The laughing flowers, that round them blow,

Drink life and fragrance as they flow.

Now the rich stream of music winds along

Deep, majestic, smooth, and strong,

Thro' verdant vales, and Ceres' golden reign :

Now rowling down the steep amain,

Headlong, impetuous, see it pour :

The rocks, and nodding groves rebellow to the roar.

The subject and simile, as usual with Pindar, are united. The various sources of poetry, which gives life and lustre to all it touches, are here described ; its quiet majestic progress enriching every subject (otherwise dry and barren) with a pomp of diction and luxuriant harmony of numbers ; and its more rapid and irresistible course, when swoln and hurried away by the conflict of tumultuous passions.

I. 2.

Parent of sweet and solemn-breathing airs,
Enchanting shell! the sullen Cares,
And frantic Passions hear thy soft controul.
On Thracia's hills the Lord of War,
Has curb'd the fury of his car,
And drop'd his thirsty lance at thy command.
² Perching on the scept'red hand

¹ Power of harmony to calm the turbulent sallies of the soul. The thoughts are borrowed from the first Pythian of Pindar.

² This is a weak imitation of some incomparable lines in the same Ode.

40 THE PROGRESS OF POESY.

Of Jove, thy magic lulls the feather'd king

With ruffled plumes, and flagging wing :

Quench'd in dark clouds of slumber lie

The terror of his beak, and light'nings of his eye.

I. 3.

Temper'd to thy warbled lay.

O'er Idalia's velvet-green

The rosy-crowned Loves are seen

On Cytherea's day

With antic sports, and blue-eyed Pleasures,

Erisking light in frolic measures ;

¹ Power of harmony to produce all the graces of motion in the body.

Now

Now pursuing, now retreating,

Now in circling troops they meet :

To brisk notes in cadence beating

^m Glance their many-twinkling feet.

Slow melting strains their Queen's approach declare :

Where'er she turns the Graces homage pay.

With arms sublime, that float upon the air,

In gliding state she wins her easy way :

O'er her warm cheek, and rising bosom, move

ⁿ The bloom of young Desire, and purple light of Love.

II. 1.

• Man's feeble race what Ills await,
Labour, and Penury, the racks of Pain,
Disease, and Sorrow's weeping train,
And Death, sad refuge from the storms of Fate!
The fond complaint, my Song, disprove,
And justify the laws of Jove.
Say, has he giv'n in vain the heav'nly Muse?
Night, and all her sickly dews,
Her Spectres wan, and Birds of boding cry,
He gives to range the dreary sky:

◊ To compensate the real and imaginary ills of life, the Muse was given to Mankind by the same Providence that sends the Day by its shearful presence to dispel the gloom and terrors of the Night.

II. 2.

¶ In climes beyond the solar ' road,
Where shaggy forms o'er ice-built mountains roam,
The Muse has broke the twilight-gloom
To cheer the shiv'ring Native's dull abode.

¶ Or seen the Morning's well-appointed Star
Come marching up the eastern hills afar.

Cowley.

¶ Extensive influence of poetic Genius over the remotest and most uncivilized nations: its connection with liberty, and the virtues that naturally attend on it. [See the Erse, Norwegian, and Welch Fragments, the Lapland and American songs.]

 Of Chili's boundless forests laid,
 She deigns to hear the savage Youth repeat
 In loose numbers wildly sweet
 Their feather-cinctured Chiefs, and dusky Loves.
 Her track, where'er the Goddess roves,
 Glory pursue, and generous Shame,
 Th' unconquerable Mind, and Freedom's holy flame.

 Ev'ry shade and hallow'd Fountain,
 Murmur'd deep a solemn sound :

of Petrarch. The Earl of Surrey and Sir Tho. Wyatt had travelled in Italy, and formed their taste there; Spenser imitated the Italian writers; Milton improved on them: but this School expired soon after the Restoration, and a new one arose on the French model, which has subsisted ever since.

46 THE PROGRESS OF POESY.

Till the sad Nine in Greece's evil hour
Left their Parnassus for the Latian plains.
Alike they scorn the pomp of tyrant-Power,
And coward Vice, that revels in her chains,
When Latium had her lofty spirit lost,
They fought, oh Albion! next thy sea-encircled coast.

III. 1.

Far from the sun and summer-gale,
In thy green lap was Nature's ^t Darling laid,
What time, where lucid Avon stray'd,

Her awful face: The dauntless Child
Stretch'd forth his little arms, and smiled,

Hark, his hands the lyre explore !

Bright-eyed Fancy hovering o'er

Scatters from her pictur'd urn

^b Thoughts, that breath, and words, that burn.

^c But ah ! 'tis heard no more——

Oh ! Lyre divine, what daring Spirit

Wakes thee now ? tho' he inherit

^b Words, that weep, and tears, that speak.

Cowley.

^c We have had in our language no other odes of the sublime kind, than that of Dryden on St. Cecilia's day : for Cowley (who had his merit) yet wanted judgment, style, and harmony, for such a task. That of Pope is not worthy of so great a man. Mr. Mason indeed of late days has touched the true chords, and with a masterly hand, in some of his Choruses,—above all in the last of Caractacus,

Hark ! heard ye not yon footstep dread ? &c.

With orient hues, unborrow'd of the Sun :

Yet shall he mount, and keep his distant way

Beyond the limits of a vulgar fate,

Beneath the Good how far—but far above the Great.

 Of the first Edward scatter'd wild dismay,
 As down the steep of ^h Snowdon's shaggy side
 He wound with toilsome march his long array.

At this day (I am told) the highest point of Snowdon is called the eagle’s nest. That bird is certainly no stranger to this island, as the Scots, and the people of Cumberland, Westmoreland, &c. can testify : it even has built its nest in the Peak of Derbyshire. “ Lance to lance, and horse to horse ?
“ Long Years of havock urge their destined course,
“ And thro’ the kindred squadrons mow their way.
“ Ye Towers of Julius ^a, London’s lasting shame,

^z Ruinous civil wars of York and Lancaster.

^a Henry the Sixth, George Duke of Clarence, Edward the Fifth, Richard Duke of York, &c. believed to be murdered secretly in the Tower of London. The oldest part of that structure is vulgarly attributed to Julius Cæsar.

^b Margaret of Anjou, a woman of heroic spirit, who struggled hard to save her Husband and her Crown.

^c Henry the Fifth.

^d Henry the Sixth very near being canonized. The line of Lancaster had no right of inheritance to the Crown.

- " Above, below, the ^e rose of snow,
 " Twined with her blushing foe, we spread :
 " The bristled ^f Boar in infant-gore
 " Wallows beneath the thorny shade.
 " Now, Brothers, bending o'er th' accursed loom
 " Stamp we our vengeance deep, and ratify his doom.

^e The white and red roses, devices of York and Lancaster.

^f The silver Boar was the badge of Richard the Third ; whence he was usually known in his own time by the name of the Boar.

" Edward, lo ! to sudden fate

" (Weave we the woof. The thread is spun)

" * Half of thy heart we consecrate.

" (The web is wove. The work is done."

' Stay, oh stay ! nor thus forlorn

' Leave me unblest'd, unpitied, here to mourn :

* Eleanor of Castile died a few years after the conquest of Wales. The heroic proof she gave of her affection for her Lord is well known. The monuments of his regret, and sorrow for the loss of her, are still to be seen at Northampton, Geddington, Waltham, and other places.

- ‘ In yon bright track, that fires the western skies,
‘ They melt, they vanish from my eyes.
‘ But oh ! what solemn scenes on Snowden’s height
‘ Descending flow their glitt’ring skirts unroll ?
‘ Visions of glory, spare my aching sight,
‘ Ye unborn Ages, crowd not on my soul !
‘ No more our long-lost ^b Arthur we bewail.
‘ All-hail, ⁱ ye genuine Kings, Britannia’s Issue, hail !

^b It was the common belief of the Welch nation, that King Arthur was still alive in Fairy-Land, and should return again to reign over Britain.

ⁱ Both Merlin and Talieffin had prophesied, that the Welch should regain their sovereignty over this island ; which seemed to be accomplished in the House of Tudor.

III. 2:

- ‘ Girt with many a Baron bold
 - ‘ Sublime their starry fronts they rear ;
 - ‘ And gorgeous Dames, and Statesmen old
 - ‘ In bearded majesty, appear.
 - ‘ In the midst a Form divine !
 - ‘ Her eye proclaims her of the Briton-Line ;
 - ‘ Her lyon-port^k, her awe-commanding face,
 - ‘ Attemper’d sweet to virgin-grace.

^k Speed relating an audience given by Queen Elizabeth to Paul Dzialinski, Ambassadour of Poland, says, ‘ And thus she, lion-like ‘ rising, daunted the malapert Orator no less with her stately port and ‘ majesticall deporture, than with the tartnesse of her princelie
 ‘ checkes.

‘ What

- ' What strings symphonious tremble in the air,
 - ' What strains of vocal transport round her play !
 - ' Hear from the grave, great Talieffin¹, hear ;
 - ' They breathe a soul to animate thy clay.
 - ' Bright Rapture calls, and soaring, as she sings,
 - ' Waves in the eye of Heav'n her many-colour'd wings.

¹ Talieffin, Chief of the Bards, flourished in the VIth Century. His works are still preserved, and his memory held in high veneration among his Countrymen.

III. 3.

- ‘ The verse adorn again
 ‘ ^m Fierce War, and faithful Love,
 ‘ And Truth severe, by fairy Fiction drest.
 ‘ In ⁿ buskin’d measures move
 ‘ Pale Grief, and pleasing Pain,
 ‘ With Horrour, Tyrant of the throbbing breast.
 ‘ A ^o Voice, as of the Cherub-Choir,
 ‘ Gales from blooming Eden bear;
 ‘ ^p And distant warblings lessen on my ear,
 ‘ That lost in long futurity expire.

^m Fierce wars and faithful loves shall moralize my song.

Spenser's Proëme to the Fairy Queen.

ⁿ Shakespear.

^o Milton.

^p The succession of Poets after Milton's time.

- ‘ Fond impious Man, think’st thou, yon sanguine cloud,
‘ Rais’d by thy breath, has quench’d the Orb of day ?
‘ To-morrow he repairs the golden flood,
‘ And warms the nations with redoubled ray.
‘ Enough for me : With joy I see
‘ The different doom our Fates assign.
‘ Be thine Despair, and scept’red Care,
‘ To triumph, and to die, are mine.’

He spoke, and headlong from the mountain’s height

Deep in the roaring tide he plung’d to endless night.

The Author once had thoughts (in concert with a Friend) of giving the History of English Poetry: In the Introduction to it he meant to have produced some specimens of the Style that reigned in ancient times among the neighbouring nations, or those who had subdued the greater part of this Island, and were our Progenitors: the following three Imitations made a part of them. He has long since drop'd his design, especially after he had heard, that it was already in the hands of a Person well qualified to do it justice, both by his taste, and his researches into antiquity.

P R E F A C E.

IN the Eleventh Century Sigurd, Earl of the Orkney-Islands, went with a fleet of ships and a considerable body of troops into Ireland, to the assistance of Siätryg with the silken beard, who was then making war on his father-in-law Brian, King of Dublin: the Earl and all his forces were cut to pieces, and Siätryg was in danger of a total defeat; but the enemy had a greater loss by the death of Brian, their King, who fell in the action. On Christmas-day, (the day of the battle,) a Native of Gaithnefs in Scotland saw at a distance a number of persons on horseback riding full speed towards a hill, and

and seeming to enter into it. Curiosity led him to follow them, till looking through an opening in the rocks he saw twelve gigantic figures resembling women : they were all employed about a loom ; and as they wove, they sung the following dreadful Song ; which when they had finished, they tore the web into twelve pieces, and (each taking her portion) galloped Six to the North and as many to the South.

Note—The Valkyriur were female Divinities, Servants of Odin (or Woden) in the Gothic mythology. Their name signifies Chasers of the slain. They were mounted on swift horses, with drawn swords in their hands; and in the throng of battle selected such as were destined to slaughter, and conducted them to Valkalla, the hall of Odin, or paradise of the Brave; where they attended the banquet, and served the departed Heroes with horns of mead and ale.

Glitt'ring lances are the loom,
Where the dusky warp we strain,
Weaving many a Soldier's doom,
Orkney's woe, and Randver's bane.

See the griesly texture grow,
('Tis of human entrails made,)
And the weights, that play below,
Each a gasping Warriour's head.

Shafts for shuttles, dipt in gore,
Shoot the trembling cords along.
Sword, that once a Monarch bore,
Keep the tiffue close and strong.

Mista

Mista black, terrific Maid,

Sangrida, and Hilda see,

Join the wayward work to aid:

'Tis the woof of victory.

Ere the ruddy sun be set,

Pikes must shiver, javelins fling,

Blade with clattering buckler meet,

Hauberk crash, and helmet ring.

(Weave the crimson web of war)

Let us go, and let us fly,

Where our Friends the conflict share,

Where they triumph, where they die.

As

32 THE FATAL SISTERS.

As the paths of fate we tread,

Wading thro' th' ensanguin'd field:

Gondula, and Geira, spread

O'er the youthful King your shield.

We the reins to slaughter give,

Ours to kill, and ours to spare:

Spite of danger he shall live.

(Weave the crimson web of war.)

They, whom once the desert-beach

Pent within its bleak domain,

Soon their ample sway shall stretch

O'er the plenty of the plain.

Low

Low the dauntless Earl is laid,

Gor'd with many a gaping wound :

Fate demands a nobler head ;

Soon a King shall bite the ground.

Long his loss shall Eirin weep,

Ne'er again his likeness see ;

Long her strains in sorrow steep,

Strains of Immortality !

Horror covers all the heath,

Clouds of carnage blot the sun.

Sisters, weave the web of death ;

Sisters, cease, the work is done.

Hail the task, and hail the hands !

Songs of joy and triumph sing !

Joy to the victorious bands ;

Triumph to the younger King.

Mortal, thou that hear'st the tale,

Learn the tenour of our song.

Scotland, thro' each winding vale

Far and wide the notes prolong.

Sisters, hence with spurs of speed :

Each her thundering faulchion wield ;

Each bestride her sable steed.

Hurry, hurry to the field.

AN ODE.

UProse the King of Men with speed,
And saddled strait his coal-black steed;

Down the yawning steep he rode,

That leads to ^{*} HELA's drear abode.

^{*} Niffheimr, the hell of the Gothic nations, consisted of nine worlds, to which were devoted all such as died of sickness, old-age, or by any other means than in battle: Over it presided HELA, the Goddess of Death.

88 THE DESCENT OF ODIN,

Him the Dog of Darkness spied,
 His shaggy throat he open'd wide,
 While from his jaws, with carnage fill'd,
 Foam and human gore distill'd ;
 Hoarse he bays with hideous din,
 Eyes that glow, and fangs, that grin ;
 And long pursues, with fruitless yell,
 The Father of the powerful spell.
 Onward still his way he takes,
 (The groaning earth beneath him shakes,)
 Till full before his fearless eyes
 The portals nine of hell arise,
 Right against the eastern gate,
 By the moss-grown pile he fate ;

Where

Where long of yore to sleep was laid

The dust of the prophetic Maid.

Facing to the northern clime,

Thrice he traced the runic rhyme ;

Thrice pronounc'd, in accents dread,

The thrilling verse that wakes the Dead ;

Till from out the hollow ground

Slowly breath'd a fullen sound.

And drags me from the realms of night ?

That calls me from the bed of rest ?

O. A Traveller, to thee unknown,

Drest for whom yon golden bed,

Then I leave thee to repose.

King of Men, I know thee now,
Mightiest of a mighty line——

That never shall Enquirer come

Till † Lok has burst his tenfold chain.
Never, till substantial Night
Has reassum'd her ancient right ;
Till wrap'd in flames, in ruin hurl'd,
Sinks the fabric of the world.

† Lok is the evil Being, who continues in chains till the Twilight of the Gods approaches, when he shall break his bonds ; the human race, the stars, and sun, shall disappear ; the earth sink in the seas, and fire consume the skies : even Odin himself and his kindred-deities shall perish. 102 THE TRIUMPHS OF OWEN.

He nor heaps his brooded stores,

Nor on all profusely pours ;

Lord of every regal art,

Liberal hand, and open heart.

Big with hosts of mighty name,

Squadrons three against him came ;

This the force of Eirin hiding,

Side by side as proudly riding,

On her shadow long and gay

Lochlin plows the wat'ry way ;

Denmark.

There

There the Norman sails afar

Catch the winds, and join the war:

Black and huge along they sweep,

Burthens of the langry deep.

* The red Dragon is the device of Cadwallader, which all his descendants bore on their banners.

104 THE TRIUMPHS OF OWEN.

In glitt'ring arms and glory drest,

High he rears his ruby crest.

There the thund'ring strokes begin,

There the press, and there the din ;

Talymalfra's rocky shore

Echoing to the battle's roar.

Where his glowing eye-balls turn,

Thousand Banners round him burn.

Where he points his purple spear,

Hasty, hasty Rout is there,

Marking with indignant eye

Fear to stop, and shame to fly.

There

There Confusion, Terror's child,

Conflict fierce, and Ruin wild,

Agony, that pants for breath,

Despair and honourable Death.

Now fades the glimmering landscape on the sight,

And all the air a solemn stillness holds,

Save where the beetle wheels his droning flight,

And drowsy tinklings lull the distant folds ;

Save that from yonder ivy-mantled tower,

The moeping owl does to the moon complain

Of such, as wand'ring near her secret bow'r,

Molest her ancient solitary reign.

Beneath those rugged elms, that yew-tree's shade,

Where heaves the turf in many a mould'ring heap,

Each in his narrow cell for ever laid,

The rude Forefathers of the hamlet sleep.

The breezy call of intense-breathing Morn,

The swallow twittering from the straw-built shed,

The cock's shrill clation, on the echoing horn,

No more shall rouse them from their lowly bed.

For them no more the blazing hearth shall burn,

Or busy housewife ply her evening care;

No children run to lisp their sire's return,

Or climb his knees the envied kiss to share.

Oft did the harvest to their sickle yield,

Their furrow oft the stubborn glebe has broke,

How jocund did they drive their team afield!

How bow'd the woods beneath their sturdy stroke!

Let

Let not Ambition mock their useful toil,

Their homely joys, and destiny obscure;

Nor Grandeur hear with a disdainful smile,

The short and simple annals of the poor.

The boast of heraldry, the pomp of pow'r,

And all that beauty, all that wealth e'er gave,

Await alike th' inevitable hour.

The paths of glory lead but to the grave.

If Mem'ry o'er their Tomb no Trophies raise,

Where thro' the long-drawn isle and fretted vault

The pealing anthem swells the note of praise.

Hands, that the rod of empire might have sway'd,

Or wak'd to extasy the living lyre.
